Pay Salaries That Will Insure Good Judges.

In Governor Broward's admirable message to the legislature he make a special recommendation for an increase in the salaries of the judicial officers of the state, particularly the members of the supreme court. After citing the increase in the work of both the circuit and the supreme court judges, Governor Broward says:

It behooves the people of the state to maintain a high standard for their judicial officers, and this cannot be done unless the compensation allowed by Indicial officers, and this cannot be done unless the compensation allowed by law is sufficient to meet the ordinary expenses of competent officials who as regularly and as studiously as you are regularly and as studiously as you are regularly and as studiously as you are regularly and as regularly and as studiously as you are regularly and as regularly and as studiously as you are regularly and as regularly and have families to support and children to educate and provide for. The great- do its news columns? ly increased cost of all the necessaries of life makes the salaries heretofore established for judges entirely inadequate. The salaries of officers and clerks in the administrative department have recently been increased, but the salaries of the justices of the supreme court remain at the sum fixed by law in 1871, when the cost of living was fifty per cent. less than now.
